Biofuels: Maritime Trade & Transport has become the benchmark maritime biofuels conference providing the bridge between the maritime industry and the rapidly growing biofuels sector

This two-day event will feature world-class speakers from all industry sectors to examine and debate topical issues including the political and economic impact of biofuels, food vs fuel, ocean transport of feedstocks, biodiesel, ethanol & FAME, emerging trade routes, ports and storage, supply chain issues, production, export, taxes & subsidies, pricing & trading and much more.

Delegates will be senior industry professionals from across the globe representing shipowners, charterers, trading houses, producers, end-users, logistics professionals, ports & terminals, brokers and a range of associated maritime service providers.

Joining us as a sponsor partner gives you exposure before, after and during the conference as we promote the event to the widest possible constituency.

Our range of sponsorship opportunities are designed to give you unrivalled access to this dynamic and rapidly growing industry sector.

The 2007 conference was very well structured and coordinated
